CME/CPD Accreditation

Dear Colleague

The Anti-Ageing Conference London is a truly unique event, combining the intimacy of a small conference with the quality, depth and breadth of speakers that any large conference would be proud to offer.

This scientific and educational conference, set in the heart of historic London, provides 16 hours Category 1 CME credits, 12 hours CPD credits and 12 hrs of Complementary Medical Association (CMA) CPD credits. The conference has been specifically designed to provide maximum opportunity for delegates to mix with their peers and the speakers in a relaxed and friendly environment. Speakers will be available for one-to-one discussions with delegates, there will also be question and answer sessions after every lecture and speaker panels both days.

We have made special efforts to keep the delegate fees as low as possible, and have included refreshments, lunches and the gala dinner in the price of the ticket.

Speakers include:

- * Dr Robert Goldman the Chairman of the American Academy of Anti-Aging Medicine (A4M), our key note speaker
- * The United Kingdom's Dr. Aubrey de Grey B.A., M.A. and Ph.D, whose work in bioinformatics at the Department of Genetics at Cambridge University has been instrumental in expediting the development of a true cure for human aging
- * Dr Thierry Hertoghe MD the President of EAQUALL and the Head of ESAAM (European Society of Anti-Ageing Medicine)
- * Dr Michael Klentze MD. PhD, ABAAM, A4M, Secretary General ESAAM, Vienna
- * Dr David Galton, DSc, MD, FRCP Imperial College and Chair Heart UK
- * Dr Garry Gordon MD, co-founder American College for Advancement in Medicine (ACAM) and announcing at the conference exciting new advances in RNA therapy for anti-ageing and disease prevention

In order to ensure an intimate environment we will be restricting attendance numbers and therefore we encourage you to register now to secure your place at this exciting event.
